

①

Due to the development and expansion in the population, has led to the slump of the cultural reflection in the contemporary era's lifestyle, they tend to portray alienation in the residential properties in the metropolis. This essay will elaborate the reason behind the same. I reckon, it is a threat to community heritage and culture.

To begin with, this similarity in architectural perspective reflects the ratio of the population rising day by day. So, most of the people have a mindset in living in the accommodation that is of either an apartment type. For instance - rich people opt for living in this kind of setup because of the lavish and secluded life they want to be in.

Furthermore, although the technological advances are on the rise; however, the building nowadays are not sustainable, they can easily be prone to natural

(2)

classmate

Date

Page

disaster. In the older ^{days} though there were ^{no} high tech engineers yet their work was remarkable. Moreover, the cultural and traditional themes were maintained. To illustrate - all the members of family resided under the same roof.

To conclude, in the current age the way of living is similar as far as housing is concerned; nevertheless, I still prefer the ancient way of construction of houses because it depicted not only our cultural value but also held our heritage strong.