

It is necessary to protect the environment to maintain equilibrium of ecosystem. Few individuals claim that it's on government's shoulder to save the nature while others believe that public should be held responsible. This essay will discuss both the views and point out opinion why government has to take the ownership.

All the wildlife sanctuaries and nonserriational parks are maintained by government authorities. Also, most of the forest area fall under them. So, by in large it is their responsibility to ensure that no species is hunted down and given maximum protection. For instance, banning on hunting of black buck had led to the preservation of this endangered species.

Furthermore, on international platform like United Nations, the government has to showcase the laws and regulations amended to protect the environment and how much adherence achieved. Therefore, the official authorities have a major role to play in it.

On the other hand, individuals can take better care and promote self-awareness among peers and ~~live~~ <sup>set</sup> by example for others. Every person has to do their bit when it comes to protecting environment. Each citizen should inculcate this thought to their children so that the coming generation can replenish its fruit. For example, ~~by~~ teaching children to close the tap when ~~it~~ <sup>is</sup> in use or ~~going for~~ <sup>to</sup> purchase eco-friendly products. As a result, such small actions will have a positive impact on environment.

In conclusion, <sup>it's</sup> government's role <sup>to</sup> safeguard and protect nature from poachers than fully depending on individuals to preserve the environment.
