

Nowadays, majority of couple opt to have children later in their life, but it has drawbacks too. This essay will examine the merits and demerits of having children later over the last decade. Young couple would not like to have baby after getting married. Because, couple need some time to prepare themselves for the next stage of their life which is to having a baby. Although Time gap made a big difference on generation gap among parents and children. Despite advantages outweighs disadvantages.

The first advantage of delaying pregnancy is couple can spend some quality time with each other after marriage. For example, In arrange marriage the newly weds want some private space to know about each other since, before marriage they don't have enough time to spend with each other. Secondly, As they are young and have energy to explore some new places together. For instance, They can go for Camping, visit Exotic location like Ladak and They can go on hiking trips. Finally, self care and spend some time to work on their passion. For example, Both men and women might get married in the early stage of their career so they might need some time to focus and succeed in their role.

On the other hand, delaying pregnancy leads to many problems. Firstly, Fertility issues has been considerably increased due to late pregnancy and late marriage. In addition to, As women age increases the number of ovarian eggs tend reduce and similarly men's fertility also decreases as they grow old. Secondly, when couple get baby in 30s. It make some generation gap. For Example, when the parents are in 50s. their children are in 20s. This age gap make some parents or children would not ~~like~~ support each other in the young or old age.

To wrap up, Even though many demerits are there in late pregnancy. It also has an drastic positive influence among the couple and husband and wife relationship. This late pregnancy give them some time and bonding which reduces divorce rates. In my perspective advantages outweigh its disadvantages.