

Problem / Solution Essay.

One problem faced by almost every large city is traffic congestion. What do you think causes are? What solutions can you suggest?

Increasing traffic congestion is the alarming issue among most of the big cities. This essay will discuss how increased use of private vehicles is its main cause along with some others like increasing population and the road's conditions in these cities. Later, I will also discuss some solutions to tackle this problem.

To begin with, ~~increasing~~ people in large cities ~~are~~ ~~the~~ prefer to use their own vehicles over the public transportation as that's more comfortable and luxurious for them. In ^{almost} every house, there are multiple means of transport for ~~almost~~ for different members of the family, which in turn reduces the use of public ~~vehicles~~ transit facilities. Another main cause for growing traffic jams would be the deteriorating roads conditions. Due to improper city planning, roads are getting worse day-by-day. We can see Potholes can be seen on the roads which gets worse during the rainy season resulting in more traffic congestion. For instance, in metro cities like Delhi, the roads are narrow and one can also see street hawkers sitting on the roadside which provides less space for the vehicles to move leading to more jams.

Moving towards some of the solutions, one of the main ~~the~~ ^{gaut.} ~~locals~~ should be inspired ^{the locals} to make use of public transportation by reducing the fares and making public means more clean and comfortable. The ^{gaut.} people should work on improving the road's conditions, building more paths for cycle riders and a separate area for the street hawkers should be given. For example, in my city the municipal corporation has introduced cycle service at nominal rates for all the locals who want do commute from one place to another by setting up small cycle stations in every sector.

This has helped the people and traffic conditions blocks have also reduced to a great extent.

In conclusion, traffic congestion is one of the main problems faced by the people living in metropolitan cities.
