

Parents Send their Children Abroad Advantages/Disadvantages.

Nowadays, most of the guardians prefer to send their kids out of the country to pursue higher education. This Essay will examine its advantages and disadvantages and provide a logical conclusion.

The Two main advantages of sending kids abroad for pursuing education are children become self-reliant and better future prospects. Firstly, youngsters stay alone away from family, as a result they learn to be independent. In addition, when they perform daily routine task by themselves for instance, cooking food, washing utensils and cloths, keeping their place neat and tidy, in turn results in transforming the individuals as a 'Confident' persona. Although spending money for getting admission in foreign university is costly, adding the foreign degree on one's resume adds greater value thereby increasing chance to get better paid jobs.

But foreign education also has some major drawbacks like feeling of homesickness and exposure to drug consumption that is legal abroad. Because of the strong connection with family, sometimes human find it difficult to cope with the situation of staying alone. They tend to miss talking to their family, miss home made food and spending quality time with loved ones.

On the other hand, kids abroad experience freedom in everything they do. Due to this, there is a greater risk of getting the freedom misused for instance, consumption of drugs.

A Perfect Example is of Shah-Rukh Khan's son, a famous actor, who had sent his son to abroad for gaining foreign education. His son was habitual to consuming drugs and ~~when~~^{once} he came back to India, he continued to do so. Since consumption of drug is against law in India, he was sentenced to jail.

To conclude, although foreign degree have numerous benefits on children's career, it has an extremely negative influence on their mindset. To recommend, staying in touch over a phone-call daily and monitoring their regular routine activities can help to eliminate the disadvantages.