

Pursuing education abroad has become a very popular trend amongst Indian parents, but this comes with its own benefits and shortcomings. This essay will talk about the certain advantages like a wider perspective and generous amount of golden opportunities along with some flaws like brain drain, cultural shock, financial burden to name a few.

Getting educated in a foreign ^{land} ~~pursuing education abroad~~ can widen the perspective an individual has.
Living in a foreign land gives a chance to the student to meet people
from different ethnicities and cultures. Having their food, getting to know their music broadens your view regarding life.
Living in another country adds up to ~~your~~ the exposure, furthermore providing ample amount of opportunities to host

your career. A good example of this would be the reason why so many Indians studying abroad never come back to their native country, hence prefer settling down there over their own nation. Moreover living without the presence of your ~~wa~~ parents and relatives makes the child more self reliant and responsible.

on the other hand we have certain drawbacks regarding this. Firstly, we cannot ignore the fact ^{that} it is financially draining the process of studying abroad is, moreover increasing the economic burden of the parents and the student. Secondly, racial discrimination is a ~~common~~ ^{common} something the outsiders have to go through, which can further have a frightful and an unpleasant effect on the person. Thirdly, cultural shock can affect the pupil in an unfavourable manner that's furthermore instigating him/her to come back to their own country. ~~But~~ However, an efficient planning along ~~to summarise~~ I would say the person with learning about the country before hand can really prevent the hassle.

In conclusion I would say that both the parents and the child should thoroughly scrutinize the purpose of going abroad ~~a~~ hence taking a decision in one's favour.
